DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by US 5,859,383.

US'383 discloses a method that includes a method of placing a bottom hole tool assembly within a wellbore containing a fluid wherein at least a portion of the wellbore directional course is advanced along a slope that is less than an angle of repose for said tool assembly against a wall surface of said wellbore, said method comprising the step of coordinating the distributed weight of said assembly with the distributed volume of said assembly and the specific gravity of said fluid to predetermine a bearing force of said assembly against said wellbore wall surface. The reference further discloses an apparatus that includes light weight well perforation apparatus (gun) comprising a light weight shaped charge loading tube enclosed within a composite material outer gun tube and a plurality of light weight shaped explosive charges operatively secured within said loading tube for perforating a subterranean well bore having an inclination of about an angle of repose or less. The subject matter of claims 4 and 35 (as represented above) encompass the limitations of all the independent apparatus and method claims in some combination. The reference further teaches the limitations as claimed in the depending claims. See the document in its entirety.

3. Claims 1-35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by US 6,554,081 or US 6,732,798.

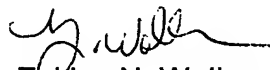

Each reference discloses a method that includes a method of placing a bottom hole tool assembly within a wellbore containing a fluid wherein at least a portion of the wellbore directional course is advanced along a slope that is less than an angle of repose for said tool assembly against a wall surface of said wellbore, said method comprising the step of coordinating the distributed weight of said assembly with the distributed volume of said assembly and the specific gravity of said fluid to predetermine a bearing force of said assembly against said wellbore wall surface. Each reference further discloses an apparatus that includes light weight well perforation apparatus (gun) comprising a light weight shaped charge loading tube enclosed within a composite material outer gun tube and a plurality of light weight shaped explosive charges operatively secured within said loading tube for perforating a subterranean well bore having an inclination of about an angle of repose or less. The subject matter of claims 4 and 35 (as represented above) encompass the limitations of all the independent apparatus and method claims in some combination. Each reference further teaches the limitations as claimed in the depending claims. See each document in its entirety.
